Our correspondance Ramaiah sir give a speech about

Engineers' Day, celebrated annually on September 15th in India, is a day of reverence for the contributions and achievements of engineers across various fields of science and technology. This special day coincides with the birth anniversary of Mokshagundam Visvesvaraya, a prominent figure in India's engineering history. In this article, we delve into the significance of Engineers' Day, the legacy of M Visvesvaraya, and the theme for this year's celebration.

Mokshagundam Visvesvaraya, fondly known as M Visvesvaraya or Sir MV, was born on September 15, 1861, in Muddenahalli, Karnataka. He earned recognition as a distinguished civil engineer, statesman, scholar, and visionary who played an instrumental role in shaping India's infrastructure, irrigation, and industrial landscape. One of his noteworthy achievements was overseeing the construction of the Krishna Raja Sagara Dam in Mysore, the largest reservoir in Asia during its time.

Few students D.V.Madhuri, G.Triveni , and Navyalikitha and few boys K.Mohan, N.Ashok and K.Balu who participated actively in to make this event grand success and to motivate all the students of prakasam engineering college.

Hence I would like to thank the coordinators of NSS Cell, JNTUK for their guidence and support and encouragement to organise these kind of programmes in our college, our college organized a camp or blood donation on our campus. All the students were asked to donate blood. 7 nurses and 3 doctors from District Civil Hospital came to our college for providing their valuable services for the mission. The core goal of this program was to collect blood and donate it to the District Army Hospital.

The principal, faculty members including me, and students donated their blood happily. We felt proud of such kind of good deed by helping poor people. Furthermore, outsiders were also invited for this purpose. A large number of people gave their blood willingly. All were happy that they got the opportunity to participate in this act.

The doctors collected more than five hundred units of blood from the volunteers. The collected blood was donated to the hospital as per the goal of the program to save the lives of the soldiers. After donating blood, I felt heartily happiness and contentment after giving a great service to humanity.

The principal also arranged fresh juices for all the volunteers so that they may not feel fatigued after donating blood. In the last moments, the principal thanked everyone for their cooperation and we promised to frequently become a part of such programs.
